Did You Know Verizon is Tracking Your Cellphone?

by Big Blue Water, LLC

Lifehacker.com recently published an interesting article. Did you know that if you're a Verizon customer your cellphone usage, apps, location and activity are being tracked? Lifehacker reports this information according to Droid life. Though Verizon claims this personal information will be kept anonymous many people are choosing to opt out of Verizon's watchful eye.

Part of the unwillingness to share this information is the obvious privacy issue. However, this information is also being sold to third party advertisers.
